THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 31, 1862

The Incoming Overland Emigration

Do our people realize the fact that an emigration from the States is now on the way to Washington and Oregon numbering some thirty thousand souls? Much of this emigration is bound for the Salmon river mines. We know that there are more people there now than can find employment, and that, of necessity, most of the vast numbers now on the plains, for that destination must come to the region West of the Cascades to find subsistence and employment for the winter. Our citizens up and down this valley must be prepared to give the hand of welcome and assistance to those who have left their homes in the East the present season and will come to cast their lot with us. Much of this emigration may be poor, but it will possess the material—muscle, energy, principle and intelligence—to hew out homes on this Coast and add to our wealth, business and prosperity.

We have another letter from Capt. M. Crawford, commanding the U. S. Overland Escort, which we copy for the information of our readers:

In camp on Scott's Creek, 75 miles from Omaha, June 20, 1862.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:—Up to this time I have had little time to write you, but now, having got partly underway, I will give you some account of the escort.

My transportation consists of twelve wagons, each drawn by ten mules, and one ambulance with four mules. The whole number of men in my company is eighty, of whom fifty are organized into a regular cavalry company, and the remainder are teamsters &c. My assistants are LeRoy Crawford, James M. Ogle, J. D. Thomas and J. A. Ames. Dr. A. J. Chapman is surgeon. The company is being drilled by Lieut. Thomas, and promise to become a very efficient force. They are armed with Wesson's Improved Breech Loading Rifles and Colts' Navy Pistols.

From the great number of applicants for this service, I selected only those of approved steady habits, and I assert confidently that a finer body of men of the number was never organized for any purpose. Notwithstanding our outfit was made in great haste, and under many disadvantages, I am proud to say it is most complete, and now, at the end of two days march, I am entirely satisfied with the prospects and progress of the trip.

The emigration is indeed very large. A settler, near whose house we are now encamped, says that for fifty days he thinks the average of wagons passing has reached one hundred a day, nearly all are going to Washington Territory. Even now, while I am writing, trains of ox teams are passing, bound for the gold mines. It is melancholy to see so many persons on their way to those regions who are in perfect ignorance of the character of the country to which they are going.

From appearances, few of the trains have more provisions than will take them to the end of their journey, and probably many will exhaust their supplies before reaching that point. The serious question is presented—What is to become of the thousands who will reach Oregon and Washington late in the fall with nothing to keep themselves—without money or provisions—many of them with families? You must be prepared, in Oregon, to answer this question practically, as a generous and right feeling people. YOU MUST ANSWER IT.

Although I am ten days later in starting than I was last year, my mule teams will travel so much faster than the ox teams we then had, that I am sure we shall reach the dangerous part of the route as early as we did last season. I design to make a halt at Fort Hall, and wait there as long as possible for emigrants to come up, and my pushing on now will doubtless have a tendency to increase their speed. I will write you again from Fort Laramie.

TIME! TIME!—The overland stage makes extraordinary good time, punctual to almost the minute. The time of the arrivals for the last month have not varied fifteen minutes. We give our unqualified praise to the managers and drivers of this line for their energy and punctuality, as the certain hour of arrival makes matters very convenient for us and gladdens the hearts of those who watch for our return home at night after the day's labors are discharged. By this arrangement we are enabled to seek repose usually at 12 or 1 o'clock each night, while if the time of arrival should be later we would not probably get to bed at all.

MADE THEIR PILES.—We are happy to announce that two well known typos returned home on the Iulia last evening, well loaded with the precious dust. Messrs. Wm. Daly and T. M. Mallory are the lucky gentlemen, and we can truly say that perhaps none are more deserving of such a good fortune. We extend them our cordial congratulations, and hope they will not forget to remember their poor printer comrades, who are still in the "gall of bitterness and the bonds of poverty."

From the Upper Columbia.

STEAMER COL. WRIGHT,
Texas Rapids, July, 2[illegible]th, 1862.

MR. EDITOR:—On Monday morning at 5 o'clock the whistle of the O. S. N. Co.'s steamer Iulia called the subscriber from the embrace of Morpheus to start on a pleasure trip up the Columbia and Snake rivers to the fabled land of gold. Our acquaintance with the Company and their genteel officers was no disadvantage on this occasion. President Ainsworth and Secretary Murray are men of magnanimous souls as we have had abundant opportunity to verify after hearing the officers of the Iulia, [illegible] and Col. Wright testify in person. Mr. Gibson at the Dalles seems to know his business, and from all that we could learn from a day's stoppage at the Dalles, we conclude that the Company was very fortunate in securing the services of such a man to fill so important a post. The people of Oregon are much indebted to this Company for what they have done and are doing.

The mountain glens of the interior now echo back the sound of the whistle as their steamers penetrate far to the east to strike the line of the approaching navigation up the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains. They have given life and activity to the monotony of an Indian country by placing a line of steamers on these noble waters, and connecting the various portages by substantial railroads. They have scattered hundreds of thousands of dollars through our promising land and gladdened the home of many a laboring man by furnishing him with constant employment. When the Cascades and Dalles railroads are completed, this will be one of the finest trades on the Pacific. It really seemed like going once more to "America" as we passed over Col. Ruckles' road, where we had once more the pleasure of being dragged through the mountain gorges on a train of cars drawn by an actual live, smoking, panting, fire breathing iron horse.

But the Company is constructing a much more substantial road on the Washington side, and from the number of men employed we should conclude that ere another season opens freight and passengers may be transported from Portland to Lewiston, a distance of about four hundred miles, entirely by the Company's steamers and railroad cars. The track at the Dalles is all completed for about three miles, and the work still goes bravely on.

This up river trade is on strong water. The Columbia falls 247 feet in a distance of one hundred miles, and from the appearance of things here in the region of the Palouse and Texas rapids, we should suppose that Snake river falls much more in the same distance, and yet under the skillful management of Capt. Coe, this little steamer walked right over them. The [illegible], a much larger boat, Capt. Feltar, came over just behind us, and both now lie at Ft. Taylor taking on wood. There must be coal mines in these mountains, for there is nothing else to burn, and when the pick axe shall have penetrated the metamorphic strata, the carboniferous period will undoubtedly yield an abundance of coal. The boat leaves [illegible]. Good bye.

C. H. HALL.

Full Particulars of the State Prison Emeute

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.

Your reporter left for the State Prison last night at 2 o'clock on the steamer Clinton, in company with a detachment of 40 mounted men of Capt. DeMerritt's Sacramento cavalry, a detachment of the Police force under Chief Burke, armed and mounted, and about 50 citizens. They arrived at the prison at 4 o'clock and found Governor Chellis in his room asleep. We learned that at 1[illegible] yesterday about 20[illegible] of the prisoners working outside in the brick yard made a break from their guard and ran whooping around to the northern gate and on their way entered Lieut. Gov. Chellis' rooms and seized him, took him to the gate and demanded that he order it to be opened. He ordered the guard named Murphy, who was armed only with a club, to open it, which he refused to do, but was finally overpowered and badly beaten about the head. They then wrenched off the lock, and all who wished passed out the gate whooping and yelling. They went to the armory and possessed themselves of all the arms and ammunition, still keeping the Lieut. Gov. with them. They then passed around towards the southern entrance, which was commanded by a cannon under the charge of Capt. Watson, loaded with 180 Minnie balls and grape. The Gov. ordered him not to fire upon them. The gun was fired in the opposite direction and then spiked. They then threw him and the cannon over a precipice of 30 feet. The captain's arm was broken. About 300 were out by this time. Messengers were dispatched to San Rafael and aroused all the country people, who headed them off and kept them on the Peninsula. The party with the Governor ran with him four miles and were pursued by five horsemen, who were constantly firing upon them. They made a desperate dash, released the Governor and brought him in. Six prisoners are known to be dead. We have the names of three—Oliver Gray, the Chico robber, James Townsend and Wm. Harris.—Thirty attempted to escape on the sloop Pike County, but a cannon was brought to bear on them and they surrendered.

The twenty seven now outside are surrounded by seventy men, and will be captured.—Marysville Appeal.

PARSON BROWNLOW IN PHILADELPHIA.—The Parson is as bitter against Secessionists as ever. In a speech at the Quaker City lately, he said:

"That the contest could not last much longer. It will come down," said he, "if we have to coerce, if we have to subjugate, or if we have to exterminate the people of the South and supply their places with a better class of men." He denounced, in warm terms, Northern Secessionists, and turned them all over to the devil. Speaking of Philadelphia Secessionists, he said: "Every man of them ought to be ridden on a rail out of Philadelphia, and if you make an appointment at one of your parks to-morrow, I will lead the way."

DROWNED.—The body of a man was found in the Columbia river a few days since, without arms or legs. The remaining portion of the body was much decayed, and was buried without an inquest.

PROGRESSING.—The telegraph poles of the Yreka and Portland line have been erected to nearly Eugene City, and we learn that the work is progressing finely.

Eastern News

WASHINGTON, July 18th.—Commissioners have been appointed under the act for the collection of direct taxes in insurrectionary districts within the United States.

Texan guerillas are hovering about New Orleans. The British armed vessels at that port omitted the usual compliments on the Fourth of July.

CINCINNATI, July 18th.—Information was received from Boyd's, on the Kentucky Central Road, this morning, to the effect that Cynthiana, seventeen miles from here, surrendered at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a half hour's fight. Morgan was there with 300 men. The excitement at Newport and Covington is very high, and increasing. The Provost Marshal at the former place arrests all rebel sympathizers.

MEMPHIS, July 18th.—While the Fifth Kansas regiment, connected with Gen. Curtis' army, was on the way to Helena in charge of an ammunition train, their progress was several times contested by the rebels. At the ford at Black river a large force of cavalry attempted to obstruct their passage, but the enemy were repulsed with a loss of sixteen men, among them being Colonel Johnson of Texas.

In the late defeat sustained by the rebels in the Indian Territory, they lost over two hundred prisoners, a large number of horses and ponies, fifteen hundred head of cattle, five hundred stand of arms, and a large quantity of camp equipage.

It is reported that John Ross, chief of the Cherokee nation, is about to join the Federals with 1,500 of his men.

Foreign News.

The news continues to excite strong hostile comment.

A correspondent of the London Times, writing from McClellan's army, says the courage of the Federal soldiers is above all praise. Their hardships are mainly attributable to the ignorance and drunkenness of their officers.

The Times opposed a Manchester call for interference in the American war.

The Paris Patrie asserts that France will never treat with Juarez. When the French army has entered the city of Mexico, Mexicans will be consulted, and their wishes scrupulously respected. France will only quit Mexico after the complete execution of a future treaty.

Palmerston had stated that the British troops would not be withdrawn from Canada.

From California

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2[illegible].—A Grand Jury of the United States were impanneled to-day to investigate the case of the Kanaka Harris, accused of murder and piracy eleven years ago.

The billiard match last night between Phelan and Lynch, 1,000 points, was won by Phelan by 215 points.

Private telegrams received yesterday from New York quote standard drills at 23 cents; consequently prices here have an upward tendency. Sacks quotable, sales at 2[illegible] cts. A Boston telegram of the 13th quotes spirits turpentine at $1 75.

The following was received last night in reply to telegrams on the subject of the tariff:

NEW YORK, July 19.—The duty on brandy has been advanced 25 cts a gallon, gin and whisky, 20 cts; salad oil 50c. No change in wines or sardines.

The following sales in tobacco have taken place here to-day: One hundred boxes Peach, $1 cash, ten cases Golden Gate, $1 10, cash; fifty boxes Harry of the West $1 30, cash.

COLONEL CORCORAN.—Some people are of opinion that the reason why Col. Corcoran is retained in custody by the rebels is that they wish to curry favor with England through his detention on account of his conduct in refusing to turn out his regiment when the Prince of Wales visited New York, but this could hardly be the motive. A Western paper probably hits the nail on the head when it says:

"The baseness and treachery of the rebel authorities in their treatment of Col. Corcoran and refusal of all terms of exchange—violating even those to which they have agreed—deserve the execration of the world. Yet we do not know but their conduct in this harmonizes well with all else in their career. From thieves it is absurd to expect honesty, from liars promise-keeping, from perjurers, faith of any kind. Why look for humanity from men who scout all those moral obligations by which human society is held together?"

POLITICAL JUSTICE.—The Charleston Mercury of a late date says:

"It has recently happened, within the last few days, that ladies have been rudely accosted and insulted by soldiers in the public thoroughfares. In some instances outrages of the most flagrant character have been committed with perfect impunity, by men wearing the uniform of the Southern volunteers."

Southern women insult Union soldiers, and rebel soldiers insult Southern women. No Southern journal has yet published such a charge as the above against loyal troops.

A SWORD FOR BROWNLOW.—The Collinsville people are making a sword for presentation to Parson Brownlow. If the Parson should gird on the whole armor which has been given him lately, he would make a formidable appearance. A battery of revolvers would peep from under each arm, and his shoulders would bristle with Sharps rifles. An arsenal of swords would dangle from his waist, and nothing would be lacking to put him on a complete war footing, except a little artillery. Somebody ought to give him one or two mountain howitzers to carry on his back, and then he would be invulnerable.

The love of office knows no restrictive geographical boundaries. A Union Post Office was opened in Memphis the other day, when there came at once a rush of thirty candidates for the place of Postmaster, among them the man who had been serving two weeks before under the rebel Government.

1,000 POUNDS OF GOLD DUST.—The steamer Julia arrived last evening at 6 o'clock, from the Cascades, bringing down 175 passengers and one thousand pounds of gold dust; three hundred per Wells, Fargo & Co., and seven hundred in hands of passengers. Who says that the mines of IDAHO are "played out" now? We are just beginning to realize the effect of our gold mines, and notwithstanding the fact that many are returning from there with sorrowful and wo-begone countenances, yet the still greater fact of the arrival of such immense quantities of the precious ore, demonstrates beyond denial that Salmon river and other gold bearing regions to the East of us are yielding an extraordinary amount of dust, and that hundreds who have tried their luck, come back well repaid for the trouble. That there have been many and will, in all probability, still be more of those who rushed heedless and headlong up to these mines, under the flattering belief that they could dig up a pile and return home in a few days, without having to undergo any hardship, or even using more than common exertions, but who have returned sadly disappointed and still worse out of humor with themselves and everybody else they meet with, is nothing more than was reasonably expected. There never has been a discovery of any important and profitable source of gaining wealth, but that a large proportion of those who first undertake to realize a benefit therefrom fail in every particular. It seems, as a natural consequence, that many men, otherwise noted for energy and perseverance, suddenly become disheartened, disgusted, and we might say disjointed, just as they were about to realize their wish or have their fortunes almost within their grasp. Experience has taught us the important fact that it requires more than ordinary perseverance to obtain a big pile in the mines, and the still more important fact—"that it is not all gold that glitters."

CITY COUNCIL, Wednesday Evening, July 30th.—An Ordinance authorizing Couch and Flanders to build a wharf across the foot of (C) Street. Read twice and laid over.

Resolution requiring the City Collector to advertise and sell real estate for the delinquent taxes of 1861.

Resolution authorizing the City Attorney to withdraw the suit of the city of Portland, vs. Leland and Stout. A motion to indefinitely postpone the same was lost. Laid on the table.

Communication of the Mayor relative to his being absent was read, and leave of absence granted the Mayor for three months.

RAISING THE COLOR.—We noticed a gentleman whom we reasonably supposed must have been a strapped "Salmon-riverite," busily engaged yesterday morning scraping up the dirt in front of Goldsmith & Bros. Assay Office, Front street, and carefully panning out the sand in search of filings, etc., which occasionally get swept out of their front door. We were unable to learn the proceeds of the operation, but presume he raised sufficient to have it said that gold dust can be raked up in the public streets of Portland. P. S.—We have since learned that he has staked out a claim including that locality, and has engaged board at a fashionable hotel.

CONCEALED WEAPONS.—We know not whether there exists a statute or municipal prohibition in this city against the carrying of concealed weapons or not; but we saw an individual yesterday in the middle of Front Street, deliberately draw and fire a very dangerous concern down his throat, and then carefully place the remaining shots in his bosom. Such things ought not to be allowed in our public streets, as we have good reason to believe the contents of the weapon used would have killed "any other man" at least a thousand yards, being telescopic-raised and double-sighted.

AMUSEMENTS.—The commedietta of "A Faint Heart never Won Fair Lady," and the comic operatic burlesque of "Shylock" was truly entertaining and amusing, being much superior to any previous entertainment given by this respectable troupe. Mr. JOHN WOOD was really at himself last night, and fully sustained his former reputation as a first class comic dramatist and artiste. Messrs. Cranshaw and Thayer added much to the performance, and personated their characters very well. Miss Virginia Lawrence and Miss Belle Divine also sustained their respective characters admirably, and thrilling songs received the enthusiastic encores of the audience. Miss Irwin also deserves a praiseworthy notice, and take all in all, the whole troupe were truly happy in their whole performances, and are well worth patronizing.

SMALL BUSINESS.—We were informed that a couple of gentlemen (?) spent at least fifteen minutes Tuesday evening at the door of the Theater trying to induce the doorkeeper to allow them to pass up to the Dress Circle for half-price.

Curious Mirror

Among the curiosities exhibited in the late Paris Exposition, and promised for ours, was a huge concave mirror the instrument of a startling species of optical magic.—On standing close to the mirror, and looking into it, it presents nothing but a magnificently monstrous dissection of your own physiognomy. On retiring a little, say a couple of feet, it gives your own face and figure in true proportion, but reversed, the head downwards. Most of the spectators, ignorant of anything else, observe these two effects, and pass on. But retire still further—standing at the distance of five or six feet from the mirror, and behold, you see yourself, not a reflection—but your veritable self, standing in the middle, part between you and the mirror. The effect is almost appalling from the idea it suggests of something supernatural, so startling, in fact, that men of the strongest nerves will shrink at the first view. If you raise your cane to thrust at your other self, you will see it pass clean through the body and appear on the other side, the figure thrusting at you at the same instant. The artist who first succeeded in finishing a mirror of this description brought it to one of the French kings—if we recollect aright, it was Louis XV—placed his Majesty on the right spot, and bade him draw his sword and thrust at the figure he saw.—The king did so, but seeing the point of a sword directed to his own breast, threw down his weapon and ran away. The practical joke cost the inventor the king's patronage and favor; his Majesty being afterwards so ashamed of his own cowardice, that he could never again look at the mirror or its owner.—English paper.

President Lincoln on Emancipation.—A deputation of the Society of Progressive Friends lately called upon the President with a memorial asking that some action shall be taken upon the policy of a general emancipation of all the slaves in the United States. In reply the President said that, as he had not been furnished with a copy of the memorial in advance, he could not be expected to make any extended remarks. It was a relief to be assured that the deputation were not applicants for office, for his chief trouble was from that class of persons. The next most troublesome subject was Slavery. He agreed with the memorialists, that Slavery was wrong, but in regard to the ways and means of its removal, his views probably differed from theirs. The quotation in the memorial, from his Springfield speech, was incomplete. It should have embraced another sentence, in which he indicated his views as to the effect upon Slavery itself of the resistance to its extension. The sentiments contained in that passage were deliberately uttered, and he held them now. If a decree of emancipation could abolish Slavery, John Brown would have done the work effectually. Such a decree surely could not be more binding upon the South than the Constitution, and that cannot be enforced in that part of the country now. Would a proclamation of freedom be any more effective?

Charleston Trembling.—Richmond papers give brief details of a hard fight, four miles from Charleston, on Monday, 19th June. They say the battle lasted all day, and that the loss was heavy on both sides. The Charleston papers were apprehensive that the fight would be renewed the next day. The Mercury has recently become alarmed, for itself and sent its large [illegible] press off to Augusta out of reach of bombardment.

Arrival of a Cargo of Beauregard's Bell Metal.—The ship North America, which arrived at this port June 16th, has on board the bells which were contributed by the people of Louisiana, for the prosecution of the war against the Union, under the proclamation issued by Beauregard. They were found in the Custom House at New Orleans and are reported to be worth $50,000.—Boston Journal.

Recruiting in New Orleans.—Col. Cahill, of the 9th Connecticut regiment, who has had but 700 men until recently, writes home that he has filled his regiment to the maximum standard (1040) by recruiting loyal men of New Orleans. The Thirteenth and Twelfth have also received additions in the same manner.

A Bridle of Chinese Hair.—When a Chinaman is taken to States Prison at San Quentin, his queue is cut off at once, in order to make his style of architecture conform to prison regulations. A few days ago we saw a beautiful bridle made entirely from these queues by an ingenious and expert Mexican prisoner.—S. F. Herald.

In a Bad Fix.—The Memphis Avalanche of the 14th ultimo gives the following reasons why business cannot be very brisk at present:

First, there are no stocks on hand; second there is no good currency; and third there are no purchasers to buy.

Old Demand Notes.—The New York Tribune says that the Treasury Department is recalling and burning the first issue of demand notes at the rate of half a million per day.—Four millions have been destroyed. The whole issue was $60,000,000.

Bad Books and Evil Company.—Sir Peter Lely made it a rule never to look at a bad picture, having found by experience that whenever he did so his pencil took a tint from it. Apply the same rule to bad books and bad company.

The Secretary of War has issued a bulletin giving effect to the law recently passed by Congress, granting a premium for enlisted men, regular or volunteer, and one month's pay in advance to each recruit.

I'll Keep 'Em Awake.—Near Newark, N. J., lived a very pious family, who had taken an orphan boy to raise, who, by the way, was rather under [illegible]. He had [illegible] as matters [illegible] and one [illegible] asked his adopted mother if she didn't think it wrong for the old farmers to come to church and fall asleep, paying no better regard to the service. She replied she did. Accordingly, before going to church the next Sunday he filled his pockets with apples. One bald headed old man, who invariably went to sleep during the sermon, particularly attracted his attention. Seeing him at last nodding, and giving unusual evidence of being in the "land of dreams," he hauled off and took the most unerring aim with an apple square on the top of his bald pate. The minister and congregation at once turned around and gazed indignantly at the boy, who merely said to the preacher, as he took another apple in his hand with a sober, honest expression of countenance, "You preach, I'll keep 'em awake!"

Giving the Countersign.—Too good a story to remain untold is going the rounds of the camp in front of Richmond.

One night, after the countersign was out, a quartermaster rode forward to enter the lines of his regiment, was challenged by an Irish sentinel.

"Halt, who comes there?"

"A friend, without the countersign."

"Well, what d'ye want?"

"I am the quartermaster and I want to get into my regiment, and not knowing the countersign, I suppose I shall have to go back and get it."

"Is that all? An' be jabers, what's to prevent my giving the countersign to ye?"

"Nothing, I suppose."

The sentinel gave him the countersign and the quartermaster entered the lines with a beaming face.

Anticipated Great Travel of the Pacific Railroad.—In an article on the Pacific Railroad, the New York Herald makes the subjoined statement: "It appears that, following the Government escort which left Omaha, Nebraska, the other day, 6000 emigrant wagons crossed the river at that point alone. At this rate, with a path cleared even to the Rocky Mountains, its passenger traffic will perhaps amount to 10,000 tickets a day during the summer months, and when completed to the Pacific the road will be more profitable than that of Panama."

Some idea may be formed of the size of McClellan's military family from the statement that it occupies the time of two locomotives and two hundred cars, day and night, to supply it with subsistence stores.

A virtuous person looks upon the whole world as his country, and upon God to be a witness and judge of his words and deeds. He so governs his life and thoughts, as if the whole world were to see the one and read the other.

A debtor severely questioned as to the reason of his not paying a just debt, replied: "Solomon was a very wise man, and Sampson a very strong one, but neither of 'em could pay their debts without money."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this seventh day of April, A. D. 186[illegible]. [Signed]
JOHN MIDDLETON, Notary Public.

MARYSVILLE, June 3d, 1856.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I shall need any more, as I feel very well, except that I have not entirely got my strength yet, but am well with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I called at your office, with my constitution, as I thought, broken, [illegible] thought you would be able to cure me [illegible] to do something [illegible] the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything. Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from these symptoms and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin and the ulcers from my throat and the [illegible] of my [illegible] which you said were principally the [illegible] my [illegible] tell you which is the [illegible] my strength. I feel as well as any man can feel. [illegible] twenty dollars over your charge, and think myself happy in doing it. If you think anybody will be benefited by it, you may put this letter in the newspapers. Believe me, gratefully yours,

THOMAS HAYDEN.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves, as one [illegible] not only as a proof of scientific skill, but that of humanity also. About two years ago, I suddenly, and from causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which owing to my inability to meet the expenses [illegible] upon a thorough medical treatment, and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became such that I was compelled to give up, as to defy the skill of any physician. I was frequently, while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down to the ground without the slightest warning; and although insensible to the agonies, I yet despised the miseries of my life and soon learned to look upon those who [illegible] or shelter me from danger as enemies who sought to prolong the existence of my miseries. While in this state and having, previous to my affliction, [illegible] once more was induced to attempt [illegible] physician, and by recommendation, called upon Dr. L. J. Czapkay. I told him of my circumstances, [illegible] my inability to reward him for his services; regardless [illegible] he at once undertook my case, and with [illegible] I was once more restored to perfect health. Unable to reward him for the boon which I enjoy at present, and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I consider it [illegible] to make the case public, in order that those in need of medical advice may find a physician in whom every confidence can be placed.
